The Gran Paradiso, at 4061m, is the highest point of the first natural park of Europe and one of the most accessible 4000m of the Alps. We propose a one week trek in early September, to reach this jewel of the Italian Alps by the side roads.

The circuit starts around the Ruitor massif and continues between Vanoise and Grand Paradis to enter this magnificent natural area through the back door. Wild scenery, passes and high altitude lakes, jumping between Italy and France, the itinerary goes in crescendo from the mountain pastures to the high mountains.

A little harder physically and less comfortable, it offers on the other hand a real immersion in a still virgin universe of altitude... and finishes with the ascent of the summit of the Grand Paradis which allows to dominate all the massif, by crossing the mythical step of the 4000m of altitude!

You will love

- An itinerary low frequented, wild and off-trails
- Few passes higher than 3000m, the landscapes along large glaciers
- Comfortable high refuges
- The ascent of the Gran Paradiso, one of the most beautiful and accessible 4000m peaks of the Alps
